

For Immediate Release

April 28th 2017

Comstock, NE

Josh Gracin with 2 number one hits, Dan & Shay, nominated for duo of the year, and Sundance Head, winner of the 2016 Voice are set to headline the Comstock Windmill Festival on June 16th, 17th and 18th. The dates are set for the return of the Comstock Windmill Festival with the original name and at the same location, the 2nd Wind Ranch 3 miles North of Comstock, Nebraska. Comstock, with a population of 80, has only one current business: a Pop machine. In the thirties it supported 60 legitimate businesses.

After a few years of absence, Comstock is Back drove a three day concert in July of 2016 and left everyone who attended wanting the popular venue back in business. Adversity caused the music festivals to close a few years prior. A couple other entities attempted to keep the festival going without success.

One of the original Founders Henry Nuxoll quotes, "We went through Hell running these Festivals but it far is better Going Through Hell Than Too Hell. People have absolutely no clue what went on behind the scenes that cost us and me more than I owned. The story behind the story takes an hour long Chamber of Commerce speech to explain."

In the meantime, the festivals always delivered the goods. Storme Warren of GAC television said "Comstock was one of the top three festivals in the nation favored by the Country stars that performed there." Chris LeDoux said, "I love Comstock. You treat everybody the same. You don't pen my true fans in the back because they can't afford VIP tickets." He rebooked Comstock the week after the festival but unfortunately passed away the day that Comstock got 5,000 posters with him and Keith Urban as that year's headliners. Also performing will be Ricochet, Chancey Williams and the Younger Brothers Band, and Nebraska's own Brody Ray with the band Calibama. Brody qualified for both national shows, the Voice and American Idol.

More Regional bands will be announced soon. Comstock will offer camping, both electrical and primitive. Food vendors, beer tents and various other vendors, tickets and camping may be purchased in advance. Please visit windmillfestival.com or call (308) 628-4108 for tickets or information. Offices will open May 1st, 9 am to 5 pm.
